

DUCK SHOW

Watch young working dogs learning their new mustering skills as they practice moving the hilarious Indian Runner Ducks in their playpen (our 'multi- million dollar world class puppie training facility')! So cute, but so important to help develop working sheepdogs.

Tobruk has a breeding program and currently has three generations of Australian Kelpies working on the property.

At three months of age puppies start their training program (really just a whole lot of fun for them)! At the early stages of the pup's development we establish whether a career in working stock would benefit the dog or just allow it to become a playful pet.

Our stockmen explain the process of training and demonstrate the techniques used in building trust and establishing relationships with animals and caring for young animals in their early stages of development.
